The Center for Judaic & Middle Eastern Studies at UConn, Stamford, offers credit courses within the academic curriculum in the Humanities as well as non-credit outreach programs for the community at large in all areas of Judaic culture, literature, and history, from antiquity to modern times, Israel, and Middle Eastern literature and politics, as well as in interfaith studies.

Now celebrating its twenty-fifth year, the Center has created a learning community around itself which gathers for intellectual pursuits and discussions of scholarly and contemporary issues.

The Center has been recognized for its innovative programs in the areas of traditional academic education and particularly outreach projects. Since its inception, the Center has enjoyed broad community recognition and has been financially supported by individuals, foundations, corporate gifts, and matching grants.

The Center is a recipient agency of the United Jewish Federation of Greater Stamford, New Canaan and Darien and is also supported by the UJF of Westport/Weston/Wilton/Norwalk.

Dr. Nehama Aschkenasy is Professor of Comparative Literary & Cultural Studies at UConn and founding Director of the Center for Judaic & Middle Eastern Studies at UConn, Stamford. She is the author of three books (among them the award-winning Eve's Journey) and numerous book chapters and articles in Judaic studies, women in literature, Israeli literature, English and Comparative literature; she recently guest-edited a dedicated volume of the AJE Review (28:1). She has served as guest scholar at many academic institutions and community study retreats in the US and Canada, and as TV commentator on Israel and Middle Eastern politics and culture.

Dr. Joel Blatt is Professor of European History at UConn, Stamford. He specializes in Modern European History and his research and writing have been primarily in the areas of French and Italian History from 1900-1945. He is at work on two books: The Assassination of Carlo and Nello Rosselli and French Foreign Policy, 1918-1940, and he has edited and written the Introduction for The French Defeat of 1940: Reassessments. Dr. Blatt teaches courses in the History of Western Civilization, Nineteenth and Twentieth Century Europe, Personality and Power in the Twentieth Century, The Holocaust, and others. He has been selected three times as the Outstanding Teacher at the Stamford Campus.

Dr. Sondra Melzer returns to the Center to speak on "The Evolution of the Jewish Family in the Works of Philip Roth." Dr. Melzer is Professor in the Graduate School at Sacred Heart University. A published poet, she is the author of The Rhetoric of Rage: Women in Dorothy Parker, as well as of numerous articles and papers. She has previously taught outreach seminars on Jewish American writers for the Center.
