The Center for Judaic and Middle Eastern Studies at UConn, Stamford, now celebrating its twenty-second year, is a learning and study resource, offering credit courses within the academic curriculum in the Humanities as well as non-credit outreach programs for the community at large in all areas of Judaic culture, literature, and history, from antiquity to modern times.

The Center has been recognized for its innovative programs and activities in the areas of traditional academic education and particularly outreach projects. Since its inception, the Center has enjoyed broad community support and has been financially supported by individual community members, foundations, corporate gifts, and matching grants.

The Center is a recipient agency of the United Jewish Federation of Greater Stamford, New Canaan and Darien, and is also supported by the UJF of Greenwich and the UJF of Westport/Weston/Wilton/Norwalk.

The Crisis of Faith (Part 2)

DR. NEHAMA ASCHKENASY

March 6, 13, 20, 27 & April 10

In this series Dr. Aschkenasy is joined by two guest scholars (March 13, 27) to explore the themes of spiritual seeking and the crisis of faith in Jewish and Christian traditions.

Dr. Nehama Aschkenasy is Professor of Comparative Literature at UConn, Stamford, and founding Director of its Center for Judaic & Middle Eastern Studies. Author of three books and numerous articles in Judaic studies, women in literature, Israeli literature, and comparative literature, she is also a frequent TV commentator on Israel and Middle Eastern politics and culture.

Dr. Allan Nadler is Associate Professor of Religious Studies and Director of the Program in Jewish Studies at Drew University. An ordained rabbi, he was Director of Research at the YIVO Institute for Jewish Research in New York City, and Dean of its Graduate Training Program. His forthcoming book is The Heretic as Hero: Spinoza in the Modern Jewish Imagination.

Dr. Blaine Edele has a Ph.D. from the Department of Religion at Duke University. The topic of his doctoral dissertation was A Critical Edition of Genesis in Ethiopic. He is currently Pastor of Union Memorial Church in Stamford, CT. Last semester he was Guest Lecturer in Dr. Aschkenasy’s course in Bible at UConn, Stamford.
